Cruelty and gross neglect, some sensational charges, has commenced suit for Leo G. Hall of Morgan in the Knox county court.

In her petition states married June 18, 1915, and children. She affirms that defendant has been guilty of cruelty and that he struck and beat her. She charges that his conduct about the house was so bad that women and girls refuse to remain or come to the house.

She claims that she has been compelled to do the work about the farm. She says she does not operate at present, but looks over. She says the defendant refused to give her money towards the support of the children.

The plaintiff in her petition says that when she was seriously ill, the defendant refused to have a doctor and went away from the home leaving her with a four-year-old daughter. She says she was compelled to crawl to the telephone on her hands and knees and call a physician.

Plaintiff charges that on Nov. 29 she took her two children and went to the home of her brother. She says that on Dec. 1 the defendant came to the house and took the two children away with him. She says that the defendant placed a paper before her and asked her to sign. She says that she has since learned that the paper was drawn up by the defendant's attorney to deprive her of her property rights.

It is alleged in plaintiff's petition that the defendant is the owner of real estate, located in Morgan township, valued at about $20,000 and that he has farm implements and other property valued at $3,000.

The plaintiff alleges that the defendant took all the property out of the hands of his first wife and that she now believes he is endeavoring to dispose of the property to deprive her of her rights. She therefore asks for an injunction restraining the defendant from disposing of or encumbering the property in any manner.

Judge Blair of the common please court granted a temporary restraining order late Wednesday afternoon.

Plaintiff asks for temporary alimony of open trial hearing date for a decree, alimony and the custody of the minor children.

Columbus Evans is the attorney for Mrs. Hall.
